The complaint that colleges are moving too rapidly away from the old learning is one very frequently heard in our day. Many people have attributed this drift to the fact that undergraduates are permitted to map out their own courses of study, and to do this under the influence of a delusion that only the so termed "practical" subjects are apt to prove of any service to them in after life, says the Boston Herald. Hence the classes in accounting, or in industrial chemistry, or in political science are large enough to tax the capacity of college lecture rooms, while professors of Greek or Sanskrit discourse to half empty benches on the beauties of the "Odyssey" and the apophorems of the "Rig Veda." But the experience of the university extension courses which have been offered in Boston during the last three or four years seems to prove that the superior magnetism of the so-called bread and butter studies is just as pronounced in the outer world as it is within the college gates.

If Dr. Friedman of Berlin carries out his reported intention of turning over his phthisis cure to the German government the world will have an opportunity to judge it on its merits. So far the world has had a right to reserve its opinion, and to remark that there was nothing to distinguish his methods of exploitation from those of the charlatans.

A Harvard psychologist has discovered singing mice and will train them. A race of rodent songsters may be developed who will make holes in one's walls and floors vibrant with melodies instead of hideous with squeals. Following this cue, even back fences may become sources of aural delights.

The remnant of official serfdom has been abolished in Russia. But real serfdom in that country will end only with the abolition of autocracy. No people can really be free who accept for their government the irresponsible will of one man, no matter how good or wise he may happen to be.

Admiral Dewey gives outdoor exercise and abstinence from banquets as the recipe for keeping young in one's seventies. The conqueror of Manila evidently knows how to conquer other things, and his advice is worth the taking.

According to present proposals, every policeman in Philadelphia is to be an electric battery to stun prisoners into submission. Naturally, the sentimentally inclined will denounce the scheme as too shocking.

A Parisian is now trying to figure out the age of a seagull with an iron ring dated 1869 on its leg. It may be forty-three years old, but it smacks of a gull of another kind.

A movement is now on foot to prevent the entrance of immigrants who cannot write a "recognized language." Often the language may be recognized, but not in the writing.

A Cincinnati hunter says he shot a rabbit with red eyes and a yellow tail. It is more likely that it wasn't the rabbit that was shot.

In Athens a woman is fined $40 every time she wears a large hat to the theater. Contrary to the ideals of Greek art, no doubt.

We are very thankful that it is President Wilson—instead of Roosevelt.

The nation extends greeting to the new president and all good citizens hope his administration may be wise and just.

If all the promises of the Democratic press will be made good by President Wilson the nation will have all its ills removed and life under the new Democratic administration will be one long joy dream. We hope it may all come true, but we fear the awakening.

—On Thursday evening of last week a sleigh load of Perryburg friends called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, to surprise Mrs. Slater, thinking it was her birthday, but were in turn surprised to find they had missed the date. The guests proceeded to have a good time, and spent the evening in an enjoyable manner.

—Word has been received here announcing the death of Dr. James Robertson, at his home in Caldwell, Kas., on Tuesday. He was badly injured in an automobile accident in January, and had never fully recovered. He was the second son of Squire Amos Robertson who was well known as among the early settlers of Wood county, and was a cousin of Miss Robertson and Mrs. E. P. Averell and Mrs. E. L. Blue of Perryburg.

—On Friday evening of last week thirty-six friends and neighbors met at the home of Mrs. B. Thornton and marched in a body to the home of Mrs. Thomas Walter, to help her celebrate her seventy-fourth birthday anniversary, she being so surprised that speech was difficult. Much amusement was caused by the most ridiculous costumes. Refreshments were served at a late hour. She was the recipient of many presents.

JOLLY SLEIGH RIDE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Snyder were completely surprised on Saturday evening at their home about two and one-half miles east of Dowling by a party of friends who arrived unheeded. The party was planned chiefly by their son Adelbert Snyder, and his wife, and although Mr. Snyder has a good watch dog the son lead him into his father's home at the head of the party who numbered 43 neighbors and friends, as follows: Fred Snyder and wife, Bennett Gerdes and wife, David Snyder, wife and children, John Ondago, wife and children, Henry Rickles and wife, George Gutzwiller, wife and children, Carl Binniker, wife and son, George Swartz, wife and son, Henry Gross and wife, William Bowden, wife and children, Adelbert Snyder, wife and daughter, E. J. Spilker and wife and Fred Kurfess. Oysters and all other necessities to make the evening enjoyable were taken with the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder quickly recovered from the shock of surprise and proved themselves admirable host and hostesses for such an occasion.

Cards music and refreshments helped make the event one of much pleasure.

Peanut as a "Civilizer."

The peanut seems to be playing the part of "civilizer" in some of the colonial districts of Africa. Traders give a negro a bushel of nuts for seed on condition that he returns four bushels from his crop, and since the yield in good years is twenty fold the black man generally has a surplus that he can sell at the rate of a shilling a bushel. From a single station in Senegambia there were shipped in one year 29,000 tons. Small boys and scientists have long been in agreement as to the value of the peanut; now statesmen also will have to do it honor, since it seems likely to lead the native African into the paths of agriculture.

SCRAP OF HISTORY.

injured, had a sliver the size of two fingers pierce his body, entering the abdomen and projecting through to the spinal column, where it left the body. It struck a hard substance and formed a head. Dr. Nolan, with a knife, whittled the head off the sliver before it could be removed. Fenton recovered, entered the service, served his time, but twelve years later he died from the effects of it. By medical authorities, Fenton's recovery was considered a miracle. This case has recently been discussed by the medical fraternity of Toledo.

It is thought by some that this wreck had been planned by the Copperheads. The Vallindigham campaign was at its height in Ohio. Before the engines came together the crew of both trains made haste for the woods, pursued by the soldiers. To confirm their suspicions, there was a Union campaign held at Perryburg addressed by Gen. R. C. Schenck, of the Union army. While the citizens were attending the meeting, a flat car, from Toledo, loaded with Copperheads, came to Perryburg. They attacked many Union soldiers on the streets, severely injuring Albert Froyne, John Cornell and Thomas Avery. When the alarm came to the court house, the meeting adjourned for a short time. As a result of the attack on the Union soldiers, several Copperheads' bones are still lying in the bottom of the Maumee river.

After being taken to the Oliver House, David Kesson and William Finley were detailed as nurses. Some of us were at the hospital nearly two months.

The injured men all recovered. Several men whose names I have not mentioned were also slightly injured. The greater majority of the men have passed to the great beyond. I shall give the names of those of Co. G who are living in Wood county: Thomas and David Shanks, Hugh Stewart, David Main, Jacob Priest, Wm. Finley, James D. Muir, A. Austin and the writer.

—Mrs. William Slater was very much surprised on Friday evening of last week when a party of Perryburg friends arrived at her home with well filled baskets to help celebrate her birthday anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Finch, Jr., and children, Mr. Bert Finch and family, Mr. George Finch and family, Mr. V. Harper and wife, Mrs. Herman Harper, Mrs. Fifer and children, Horace Bluebaker and Will Slater. The evening was spent with music and games, the guests presenting Mrs. Slater with a number of appropriate presents, and departed wishing her many happy returns of the day.

The light from these new lamps is so brilliant, and is so perfectly diffused that often only one cluster is needed. The turn-down switch gives just the degree of light desired. You Can't Iron Table Linen as Nice

As our "flat work ironers" will do it. These machines iron the linen by passing it between a heated steam chest and softly padded rolls. This gives the same effect as many ironings with a flat iron would, drying the linen perfectly, giving it a natural stiffness, and a finish that brings out every thread of the pattern in a beautiful way. Try our work.

During February

There is bound to be more or less fixing up about the place, this month, getting things in shape before the spring rush of work, when all hands will be busy. Besides, there's likely to be an early break-up that will make hauling next to impossible. So, if you are going to need lumber of any kind in the spring.
